NEW YORKISMS.

From Our Own Ob Tempondent.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13, 1868. An unfortunate gentleman, who has been so assiduously employed in teaching the young idea how to shoot that he seems to have had very few shafts of intelligence left in his own quiver, has just been swindled by that old, old operation known as the confidence game. The unfortunate gentleman is a Michigan schoolmaster, and though there is no objection to the schoolmaster being abroad (is that not supposed to be his social condition at present?), yet it would be convenient if he were always to carry his wits abroad with him. The prairie pedagogue in question, finding his health gone, was en route for California in quest of it. On his way he stopped in this city, and while securing passage in the Ocean Queen, at the foot of Canal street, accepted acquaintanceship with a confidence man, whose mug is well known to students of the Rogues' gallery at the Central Station. The school teacher has in his possession several hundreds of dollars, nearly $300 of which he was persuaded to lend to the confidence operator and friend, until they found time to repair to a bank and get cashed a $1000 Government bond they held! That even a Western schoolmaster could be found so credulous seems an anomaly. One of the swindlers has since been caught, and entombed in that Egyptian-like edifice presided over by Justice Dowling, and such friends as the moneyless Mentor has here are getting up a subscription to prevent his falling into the hands of the Ishmaelites, and to further him on his voyage Sunday afternoons along Fifth avenue are like Arch and Pine and Walnut streets, in Paila delphia, emptied into one, and full of churchgoers. At sight of the innumerable toilets and equipages, the first question one would ask might be. Is Religion the fashion, or is Fashion the religion? Yes, these church-going dresses are as costly and magnificent in their way as those of the ball-room and the opera, and as much finesse is shown in the tollet of the pew as in that of the party. If the Virgin Mary were a sort of apotheosized Eugenie, she could not snuff up a more bewildering incense of fashion than that offered to her in many a Catholic and Episcopal church here. I love the sight of these exquisitely dressed devotees. They are constant to one thing, and that is the religion of dress. On the single commandment of "Dress as well as thy neighbor and as much better as thou canst," hang all the law and the prophets. They have nothing to be forgiven, because, in the whole course of their lives, it has not happened that they were ill-dressed. The hands were perfectly gloved wherewith they raised the cup of communion to their lips, and at the hour of confirmation their hair elaborately enough dressed to feel the consecrating touch of any bishop in the world. Taking them altogether, then, I like the aspect of these elegantly-dressed sinners, particularly since the Grecian Bend is the mode in which the 'Miss Hardcastles" of the present day stoop to conquer.

Apropos of church going, there is no truth in the rumor that Grace Church, whose spire is visible from the southern extremity of Broadway, is to be sold for $600,000. It is not to be sold at all, though if it were the lots on which it stands would easily bring that price. Though rather too low down to ful y maintain its past prestige of being the fashionable church of the city, its location is not dissatisfactory to its present congregation. Some of the best singing in New York is to be heard and some of the most sumptuous toilettes are to be seen within its walls, and many a time and oft is the immortal Brown-who has become historical as a sextonto seen be sunning himself on the front stoop. When Brown dles, I hope he will be buried in one of the new resurrection coffins, for I want him to have every possible chance of coming back, and continuing to install princes and parvenus in one another's good graces.

An indignation meeting has been held at the Brooklyn Academy of Music, expressive of the dissatisfaction of the citizens with the behavior of the supervisors of Kings county, in the unfair appointment of inspectors and canvassers of registry and election. It seems that in a few wards the Board had made fair appointments, but that in the vast majority, especially in those in which the most anxious scrutiny was necessary, it had made the appointments all one way-Wood's Theatre has set the example of reform in regard to the ticket nulsance. There, at least, entrance to the lobbies is not rendered hazardous by speculators who thrust their tickets in your face. All the theatres along Broadway are subject to this nuisance. Wood's Theatre has likewise abolished the system of return-checks, so that theatre-goers who at the close of each act think it is a long while be. tween drinks, have nothing to do but endure their perception of that truth.

Mr. Forrest was received last night by an audience of respectable size and enthusiasm, He enacted "King Lear." Being a sexagenarian himself, and by no means so young as he used to be, it is quite unnecessary for him to take such elaborate pains in an aged make-up. In the little I saw of the performance I could detect no decline of genius. But since "Lear" is not precisely a youthful character, physical strength and energy had no need to be simulated. Mesers. George H. Clarke and F. Mordaunt, of Chesnut Street Theatre memory, were respectively the "Edgar" and "Edmond" of the Madame (or Madamoiselle) Desclauzas is evidently getting nervous at being withheld from public gaze, and Mr. Grau has therefore published a remarkable statement, the gist of which is, that the Grande Duchesse of Rose Bell is to be withdrawn in the height of its success, in order to please Madame Desclauzas, whose contract stipulates that she is to appear therein.

Her debut takes place to-morrow night. The late Fitz-Greene Halleck's library was sold last night by auction in Clinton Hall. Among them were a few specimens of the curious and unique, such as "A History of the Vigilance Committee of Attakapas," in French and English, published in Louisiana in 1861, and the only copy in existence, the rest having been destroyed in the early days of the Rebellion. The most interesting book of the collection was a scrap-book, containing hundreds of autograph letters, engravings, Rebel newspapers, and some unpublished poems by Halleck and his confreres. Other books contained autographs of most distinguished English and American authors now living, and these were indeed the books of chief laterest. All Baba.

FINE FRENCH CALF BOOTS AND GAITFES.-The man who has never experienced the pleasure of wearing a pair of boots made by William H. Helweg, is to some extent an object of commiseration. We speak knowingly, having worn Helweg's boots for years. Their comfort, however, is not their only recommendation, as they are made of the best mate rial and in the very best manner. Helweg will not employ an incompetent workman; therefore his work is always first-class. His store and factory is at No. 535 Arch Street, next to the corner of Sixth.

OUR CHILDREN at this season of the year are often troubled with Worms, the result of eating unrips fruit and a weak eigestion, which seriously affect their health.
